Self guided tours of new zealand

There's no shortage of cruises, bus tours, and other guided explorations of New Zealand's islands. If, however, you want to feel like a pioneer, take your time or choose your photo opportunities, several Kiwi tour companies will happily force you with everything you need to bring a DIY attitude towards tourism. This local tour company offers several options for self-sufficient travelers, including 4x4 adventures, rental car tours, and even the chance to explore the country from your small campervan. Four-by-four tours are also accessible to those who don't have back-country driving experience, and your SUV allows you to see the pristine country off the beaten track that's not available to the average tourist. If you opt for a campervan tour, you can completely create your own rhythm, stopping and sleeping wherever you want, following the recommended itineraries to landmarks, historical sites, and attractions. To complete your experience, choose to spend a night on a real Kiwi farm and see the independent spirit that helped build this island nation. Rest New Zealand Tours 2b Killarney St. Takapuna, Auckland New Zealand +64-9-486-0636 restnztoours.co.nz GoTour offers self-guided motorcycle tours of New Zealand, customized on an individual basis to make sure you get the tour experience you're interested in. A survey lets GoTour know what you're looking for and provides you with accommodation reservations, road maps, and local activities and attractions in your travel itinerary. If you want a low-key trip exploring the back roads and staying with locals on the farm, or a more conventional tour without your tour guide, GoTour can oblige, as well as book tickets or admission to the most popular stops, so you don't have to risk a sell-out or stand in line. Included in your rental is your accommodation, breakfasts, itinerary and reservations and of course your bike. Other meals, safety equipment and fuel are not provided. GoTourNZ 29 Bolt Rd. Tahunanui, Nelson New Zealand +64-3-548-5787 gotournz.com This Australian company offers MP3 file downloads that allow you to turn your digital music player into a private tour guide. As of 2010, the cost was extremely reasonable, only $12 Australian or about $10 in the US. Two tours are available, and buying both will give you 6 full hours of information about The City of Sails, including colorful local figures, anecdotes, monuments, and history. Both tours can be combined for an in-depth day tour of Auckland or can be used to enhance your exploration. Neither walk takes on challenging terrain, and you can always pause reproduction to investigate a pub, overlook, or boutique. Talk'n Tours P.O. With local accommodations inns and bed and breakfasts and stops ranging from 7,000-year-old tombs to picturesque Irish pubs, a backpacking tour offers visitors the chance to truly immerse Ireland. Paddywagon Tours has been operating in Ireland since 1997 and operates hostels across the country. Paddy's green buses pass through Ireland on tours that include accommodation at local bed and breakfasts, hostels and inns, as well as breakfast daily and admission to all the attractions you'll stop at along the way. Day tours are available from Dublin, Belfast, and Cork, and you can even use a Paddywagon bus to get free transportation to and from Dublin Airport. To see all of Ireland, two 10-day tours are available, one with deluxe accommodation included. These tours include many of the highest points in the country, including a visit to the Guinness Storehouse, towering Moher Cliffs, Giants Causeway, and Blarney Stone at Blarney Castle. Paddywagon Tours 5 Berestford Place Lower Gardiner St. Dublin 1 Ireland 011-353-1-8230822 paddywagontours.com Phil Ryan and Carolyn Janette met when she was a traveller and was a tour guide, the Inroads Ireland website explains. They married in 2001 and now offer regular eight-day tours of Ireland throughout the year. Meet your group in Dublin and spend a week on the way exploring Northern or Southern Ireland. If you feel like exploring the whole country, you can book both back-to-back tours for a full Irish experience. Roads tours offer a commitment to spending time off the beaten track, so while you'll see highlights like the Cliffs of Moher and historic Derry, you'll stay in smaller towns in guesthouses or bed and breakfasts, giving you a chance to meet the locals and see a different side of Ireland. A warm traditional Irish breakfast is included for each day of the tour, as well as entry to the historic sites included in the tour. Inroads Ireland 2918 Stevens St. Madison, WI 53705 888-220-7711 inroadsireland.com Shamrockers Tours offer Irish Adventures with a small selection of tours that hit Ireland's highlights, as well as holiday-based seasonal tours like St. Patrick's Day and Halloween. Shamrockers tours are not specifically associated with a particular hostel or housing chain, and overnight accommodation is not included in the tour, keeping prices low. Your tour guide, however, will gladly recommend and book your accommodation for you, whether it's a hostel or a bed and breakfast. The seven-day All Ireland Rocker takes travelers on a cycle across the entire island, starting and ending in Dublin, with stops in Belfast, Derry, and Galway. Enjoy a bike ride on Inis Mor Island, walk along the swinging rope bridge at Carrick-a-Rede, and admire live music for a pint at a traditional pub Tours are focused on jumping between locations so you can spend as much time as possible exploring, and your Irish guide will speed up the journey with stories and history. Guided excursions -- sometimes called walking tours -- offer travelers the chance to explore the countryside and soak up the culture while the tour company takes care of details such as accommodation and luggage. A caveat: Many parts of Ireland have challenging terrain, so ask about the difficulty of a tour before registering. Joyce's Tours offers guided tours in different parts of Ireland. A tour, Spectacular Southwest & East, starts in Dublin and skirts the coast and mountains; includes visits to Cape Clear Island and the Dingle Peninsula. Another trip, in the West, takes you from Clifden to the Cliffs of Moher, with stops at Aran Island in Inishmore and ballyvaughan village in the Burren region. (There is also a trip to the West only for women.) You can find a tour that offers excursions throughout Ireland, as well as a trip centered around cliffs, castles, and Giant's Causeway, a natural wonder made up of over 30,000 basalt columns. The three easy trips take place in County Kerry; one of them offers yoga and walks. More moderate trips also include trips to Kerry; you take music and dance and natural beauty; the other focuses on religious and historical destinations. Other moderate trips range from Galway and Mayo to Connemara, Burren and the Aran Islands. If you prefer more than one mode of transportation, you can book a tour that combines cycling, hiking, and a boat ride on Killarney Lakes. Go Ireland Killorglin, County Kerry Ireland 800-721-4672 govisitireland.com REI Adventures offers a hiking tour that takes you from coast to coast. The journey begins in Dublin and crosses the Wicklow Mountains to Tipperary; it then proceeds to Beara Way, the Iveragh Peninsula (home to Killarney National Park) and the Dingle Peninsula. Along the way, learn about Irish history by visiting cathedrals, monasteries, and castles, and get a glimpse of modern life in shops, cafes, and pubs. REI Adventures recommends this tour for experienced hikers; includes steep, rocky terrain with elevation gains of up to 2,000 feet. REI Adventures P.O.
